

JAN. 20-21

Glassworks' 'Ignite'

art

It's time to get fired up. The five artists/founders of The Ground Floor

(Amanda Bishop, Cynda Bishop, Teresa Huarte, Jesse Levesque and Sara Robinette) have organized "Ignite," their third art and music event. Saturday night is party time, with a request for attire with a little "heat" to it. Expect to see fire-themed work by emerging artists in such media as painting, performance art and installations, all to a musical beat. And since Glassworks, by the nature of its business, is already hot, it's where you want to be to get out of the cold.

Sunday is for viewing and buying. Ohio Valley Creative Energy will receive a portion of all works sold. This soon-to-be-built arts facility across the river has plans to be powered by locally produced methane gas. And that's not just hot air. —Jo Anne Triplett

Glassworks

815 W. Market St.

www.thegroundfloorgallery.com

Sat.: $5; 7 p.m.-12 a.m.

Sun.: Free; 11 a.m.-4 p.m.