July Summary

July was my last month of teaching for Super English. Because I am planning a trip to Cambodia and Scotland before I return to the States, I tried to save some more than usual. July 14th was my birthday and thus has some extra spending included in the day. For example the oil massage, which I would recommend all teachers to try at least once. I did take two trips in July. However, the first trip was a birthday present so I did not pay much of the expenses. The rest of the month was not a heavy spending month even with a long weekend at Kao Sok National Park. The best part about Surat is how easy it can be to live and travel on a budget. You may also notice that I spend around 30 baht for breakfast almost every day. I have become addicted to rice soup and go to a small breakfast shack every morning. I know not a lot of teachers do this but I love it and am willing to give up the extra sleep for my rice soup breakfast.
