As an accomplished faux finisher and decorative painter for the past 30 years, Chris Butler is no stranger to mixing and manipulating pigments and paint. In more recent years, Chris has turned his focus to capturing the unique and dramatic landscapes and seascapes of the East End of Long Island where he surfs, sails and makes his home.

A life spent in and on the water has provided him with a wealth of visual imagery. The intense energy and beauty of nature, spaces where land, sea and sky merge in ever changing horizons and light have inspired Chris to transfer them to canvas.

His paintings are the observations of compelling atmospheric qualities and spontaneous interplay between air, space, light and water. Through careful composition and treatment of the elements, his work is a photographic record and an abstraction at the same time.
