

Surrendered

words and music by Brian Davis; © 2010 do you smell that music

v1

I call your name, are you still there
I need to know that I'm not alone
Your still, small voice is too small and still for me to hear
Give me some sign that you're still there
One gentle word to calm this storm inside
My heart and soul, they yearn to know that you're still there

prch

How many times must I cry out to you
And hear my own voice echo in the silence

Still I will worship you, when all around is falling down
When all I know has come apart, you will be standing there
With your hands out-stretched to me
Still I will worship you when all I've built is laid to waste
And all I have are these empty hands, lifted up to you surrendered

v2

This raging fire inside my soul
Cannot be quenched by anyone but you
I need you now, I need you here come speak to me

I may never understand the purpose for this pain, I'll never hear the stories these scars will tell
All I really know is that when I can't feel you there You're reigning still, and you'll never leave
