To Whom It May Concern

Working with Enrica was an absolute joy. Enrica is extremely professional and delivery of materials was excellent. We had great communication and I loved the process of exchanging ideas for the music. The film is set in a specific cultural universe and for me it was important to have a dramatic film score which would incorporate elements of this specific cultural environment without being overtly present. Enrica conducted thorough research and from there proposed musical themes. She composed a wonderful score which indeed highlights the story and emotion and has subtle references to the musical tradition of the region. Most of all, she was pregnant during the months she was working on the soundtrack, and she was always at the top of her tasks.
